

INFORMATION

December 2006

Rhema Group set to enhance its performance management consultancy through strategic link with 360 Partnership

With an enviable track record for delivering performance management consultancy and training, Rhema Group has continually developed and updated its offering to clients in this important aspect of business skills.

Rhema has now formed a strategic link with IT solutions company 360 Partnership, which specialises in the areas of Performance Management . This will broaden and strengthen Rhema's offer to companies which are looking for highly efficient management of performance to be supported by online systems.

MD Jeremy Francis says: "We at Rhema Group are very impressed by 360 Partnership and their online solutions.

"Building on our own substantial experience in the area of performance management, we look forward to deriving the strategic benefits we believe can be gained from this link - for ourselves and for our own clients."

360 Partnership offers over 25 years' experience in management training and OD consulting with some of the largest companies in the world. It specialises in complete online solutions to meet the needs of practitioners and consultants in human resources, organisational development, management coaching and training. This is achieved by working in partnership with these organisations, to design, develop and deliver cost-effective people management and development solutions, which are easy to understand, simple to use and require minimal external support. The provision of leading edge technologies supports their strategic partners and customers in growing and developing their businesses.

Products include C360, an online behaviour feedback process designed for use by HR or OD consultants, management coaching and training providers, and HR outsourcing suppliers; also ePMS, a complete online performance management system, which can be used alongside the C360 program, to provide a fully integrated and comprehensive performance and personal development process.

360 Partnership Director Tim Harding says: “We partner only a limited number of businesses globally to ensure that we can partner each one effectively. The criteria for selection include their quality and range of service offering, their commitment to growth and their willingness to work with us openly and constructively as an IT solutions partner. We feel privileged to have found in the Rhema Group a partner that so completely fits this profile.”

Contacts....

For further information and interviews contact Terri Anderson

T: + 44 1494 565864

M: + 44 7802 872346

E: hq@rhemagroup.com

December 2006

Notes to Editors

The Rhema Group www.rhemagroup.com is a highly respected and well-established UK human resource development company which also operates globally. Founded in 1985 by MD Jeremy Francis, Rhema (a name derived from the Greek for inspired word) has won a solid reputation for innovation, quality and reliability of delivery of people development and performance. Focusing on Talent Development, Management Development, Performance Management, Sales Training and Skills Development, Rhema provides on a 24/7 basis customised and blended solutions involving business consultancy, assessment/psychometrics, training, coaching, software and E-learning (via internet and client intranets).

Rhema Group includes a roster of talented and experienced UK consultants, and through 15 international partners of best practitioner status in Europe, USA, South Africa, Australia and S.E. Asia, Rhema delivers proprietary products and services globally in a variety of languages – in particular to multinationals looking for high quality, customised and consistent international roll-out of centrally mandated people development programmes and assessments. Clients include Microsoft, Société Générale, Reed Business Information, BOC Group, International Financial Data Systems, Institution of Civil Engineers and leading Dutch vendor lease organisation De Lage Landen.

360 Partnership Ltd www.360partnership.net offers two key proposals: either partnership with those who are professional HR consultants or trainers; or - via 360 HR Solutions which acts as a virtual partner of 360 Partnership Ltd - a service to direct customers, helping them to design, develop and deliver cost-effective IT-based systems, thus enabling them to manage and develop their companies' management and staff in ways which are consistent with each particular organisation's goals, values and current processes.